Dos and don'ts of self-isolation

For travellers and people who may have been exposed but do not have symptoms

March 30, 2020

If you have come into contact with an infected person or have recently travelled, you are required to self-isolate. This does not necessarily mean that you have COVID-19, but you are at risk for developing the disease and passing the infection on to others. Health care workers should consult with their employer.

If you develop symptoms of COVID-19, continue to self-isolate for 10 days after onset of symptoms. If your condition worsens, contact your family doctor or call 811.

Frequently asked questions

What is the point of self-isolation?

This is one way every Canadian can help slow the spread of this virus in their community and protect their friends, family, and health care workers.

Why should I isolate myself for 14 days if I don't have symptoms?

You can be sick and not know it yet. It is important to stay at home because you can develop symptoms at any time.

Can I go to work?

No. You could put your co-workers at risk. Many employers have made arrangements for working from home.

Can I use taxis/public transit/ride share?

No. You cannot ensure sure that you are 2 metres form other people. Using taxis, public transit, and ride shares puts the public at risk.

Can I go for a walk outside?

No. Stay in a private place like your yard or balcony if you go outside for fresh air.

Can I go to the pharmacy to pick up my medication?

No. If you need medications, use a pharmacy delivery service or ask a friend to pick them up and bring them to your home.

Can I get the mail and newspaper?

If your mail is delivered directly to your house, it is ok to go to your mailbox. Make sure you wash your hands. If your mail is delivered to an apartment or community mailbox, or the post office, ask a friend to pick-up and deliver to you.

Can I go through a drive-through for coffee/food?

No. There is a risk of infecting other community members, including food service workers. Use delivery services or ask someone to deliver coffee or food to you.

Can I prepare for self-isolation by grocery shopping when I return from abroad?

No. If you are on self-isolation, this applies immediately. Use grocery delivery services or ask a friend to deliver them to you. If you must buy groceries yourself, order online/by phone for pick-up. Ensure proper handwashing and wear a mask.

Should I cancel my haircut/pedicure/spa treatment?

Yes. These are examples of non-essential appointments. You would be exposing your service providers and the public to unnecessary risk.

Can I have visitors?

No. Use technology, such as video calls, to keep in touch with friends and family.

Can I have playdates for my kids or playdates in my home?

No. If your children are in self-isolation, they need to avoid contact with others. Consider novel ways to keep in touch like virtual meetings, hangouts, family dinners or playdates for your kids.

Can children play outdoors together? Can my child have a sleepover with children who have also been isolated?

No. Children need to keep 2 metres away from other people.
