If you work for an organization interested in hosting a Food Skills for Families program, please review the Host Requirements outlined on the following two pages.

Food Skills for Families programs are instructed by certified Community Facilitators who have each attended a 3.5-day Train-the-Trainer program. Organizations are encouraged to have staff certified as Community Facilitators. If your organization does not have a staff member trained there may be local Community Facilitators who can lead a program for you.

Costs associated with running the program are shared between the organization hosting the program and the BC Centre for Disease Control (BCCDC). Cost covered by the BCCDC include groceries and participant handbooks. Full time Food Skills for Families program staff are available to provide support by phone and email.
